Ref

From law student to Provost and Dean of Faculties, Oswald Symister Colclough has contributed to the eminence of the University.

A graduate of the United States Naval Academy in 1920, he was graduated with distinction from the University Law School in 1935. In World War II he served as Commanding Officer of the Battleship North Carolina. In November, 1945, he was confirmed by the Senate as Judge Advocate General of the Navy. He retired from active duty in 1949 from the post of Commander, Submarine Force, Pacific Fleet.

Vice Admiral Colclough became Professor of Law and Dean of the University Law School in 1949, and in 1953 he accepted the newly established post of Dean of Faculties. In many sensitive and demanding roles, he contributed to the public service of the Nation. When President Marvin retired in 1959, he became Acting President of the University.

After President Carroll came to the University in 1961, Admiral Colclough returned to his duties as Dean of Faculties, and the Board of Trustees created the post of Provost which he was asked to occupy. He has held these positions until his retirement this year.

For his distinguished service to his country and to the University, we dedicate to him this 1964 CHERRY TREE.

Life Parades on Campus

The Colonial Splendor of our fraternity row.

So who needs a ticket?

Go Greek!

You spelled my name wrong.

Fraternity Rush Rushes Onward

Every fall the George Washington University puts on a glittering gold cape to impress the incoming freshmen with the joys of "Going Greek." This seasonal mask—or masque—is known as Rush.

And rush is the word for it. Rush to fraternity house to decorate for the party, rush to the union to play Joe College, rush to the liquor store to pick up some vodka, rush to the girls' dorm to find dates for five rushmen, and finally rush to the freshman mixer to survey the crop.

But the rushman never knows this behind-the-scenes bedlam. He sees brotherhood and beautiful girls and "cool guys" anxious to buy him beer. He hears, "What do you think of our bunnies?" "Have you met Tom, he's president of . . ." "Well, uh, our scholarship program is something we're really working on. You see . . ." What freshman could but heed the call of this ancient mysticism.

Stop that rushman!

And this is one of our past sweethearts.

Strong Hall ladies we are . . .

This is the way you earn your merit badges.

Sororities Rush Entering Co-Eds

The girls, of course, don't present their Great Fall Spectacular in quite the same way that fraternities do. Sororities are fragile and feminine and formal about it: perfectly planned parties with tea and crumpets, discussions about English lit and summer jobs, well practiced skits, tactful lack of reference to competition, and the soft sell, girls, all the way.

The rushees leave to the strains of sorority hymns, and THEN—the lid pops off! Shoes get kicked into corners, herds throng to the kitchen to devour the remaining crumpets, curses upon the Alpha Alpha Alphas rise above the increasing hubbub, a closet opens and 40,000 purses, books, and "membership selection" lists fall to the floor, while the rush chairman faints dead away on top of the name tags for the next party. Fragile, feminine and formal—Rush is still the word for it.

A view from the top of the stairs.

At the end of the storm is a golden light.

Colonials Return for Homecoming

We brung 'em back with a bang! The team came home to play its last game of the season in D.C. Stadium; the alumni came home to remember the good old days. Everyone was greeted by a week's festivities—Homecoming.

Homecoming began with the Fall Concert. We tapped our feet to the tunes of The Lettermen and then applauded at the introduction of the 1963-1964 Homecoming Queen, the lovely Miss Nancy Steinberg.

Later that week we were transported to the Scottish highlands by Julian Barry's hard-working cast that presented Lerner and Lowe's hit musical, Brigadoon. We came to see them, bended to their songs, their dances, their overall charm. We were proud of our friends.

Next on the agenda was the float parade—with the gracious permission of the third precinct, of course. We stayed up all Thursday night stuffing crepe paper into chicken wire and hammering nails into plywood. And we grew as punchy as prize-fighters. It's strange that after no sleep nothing strikes one quite so funny as seeing an entire float being blown over. But the Parade must go on—and to the strains of On Wisconsin it did!

After the parade did we go to sleep as we should have? No, of course not; we went to the GIGIF. We got our thirty-fifth wind with the kiss of the hops and rejuvenated our lifeless limbs sufficiently to shape them into the contortions of the bird and the frug.

Then came the climax of Homecoming on Saturday afternoon. We won! We defeated Brigham Young University 23 to 6. If anyone wondered how to overcome student apathy, he found out during that game!

We celebrated that night at the National Guard Armory, which was miraculously transformed from its track meet atmosphere to a glorious ballroom by eight pounds of glitter and five miles of crepe paper. The music of Les and Larry Elgart was the perfect background for an enjoyable evening.

The next morning, what remained? Memories, of course, paper and wire and wood in the parking lot, bourbon and coke stains on velvet skirts, and headaches. Except for the Homecoming Chairman; his headache had at long last ended.

The Letter-MEN?

Presenting Miss Nancy Steinberg, the newly crowned Homecoming Queen.

Didn't you wear that to the last festival we had?

Happiness

The week after Homecoming is a time for everyone to recuperate from the festivities and perhaps get a little homework done—but not sorority pledges. Back rooms of sorority apartments are enveloped in secrecy as pledges frantically try to create a five minute skit worthy of a Broadway production. This year the theme of goat show was "Happiness is . . ." Each skit had to contain in a clever and original way, the brilliantly conceived line, "Holy mackerel, mammy jammy," which somehow or another won a trophy for the Phi Sigma Deltas.

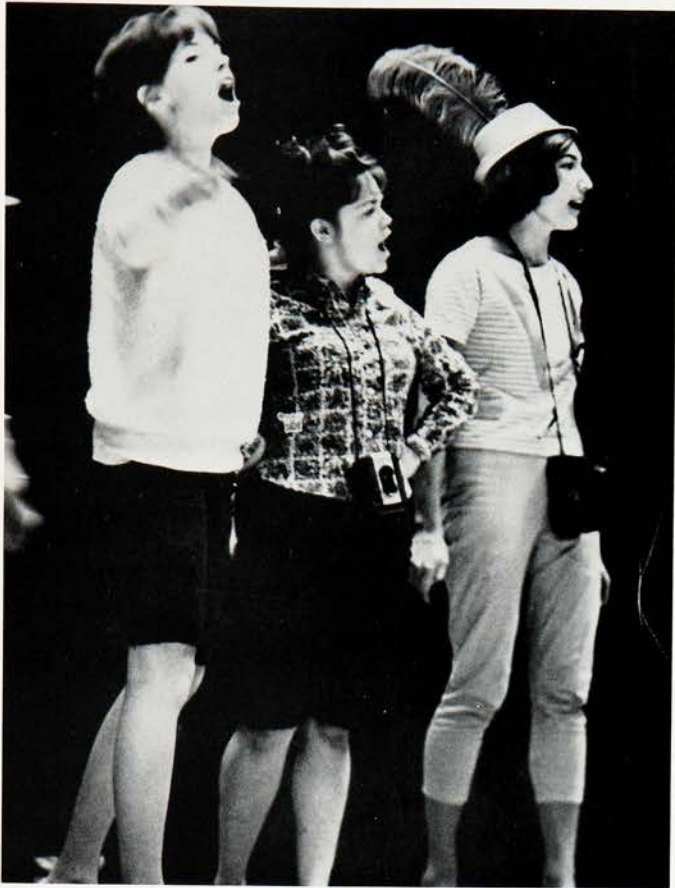

After a frantic week filled with such excitement as lost scripts and rejected lines, the pledges of the thirteen sororities put on a good show for all those who had brought their can of food and paid a quarter. The time in between the skits was filled with witty repartee between Stan Baritz and the audience.

Phi Sigma Sigma won the trophy for ensemble with their clever spoof of communism; the Chi O's and the Zetas tied for originality; and the KD's and Norman were awarded the trophy for audience appeal. The happy winners could only say one thing: "Holy mackerel, mammy jammy, happiness is winning!"

The Kappa Deltas calmly accept their triumph.

Christmas Arrives on Campus

Really, Professor, at your age!

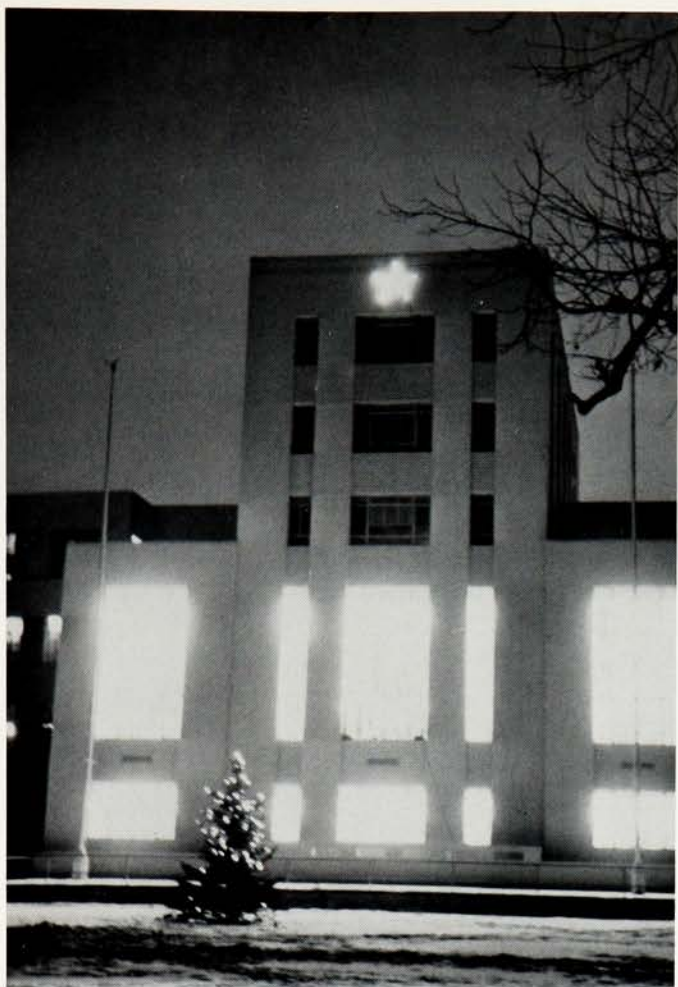

Home, James!

Christmas comes but once a year—thank God!

I have a sudden craving for a donut.

Oh, Holy Night, the star is brightly shining.

Smile when you say that!

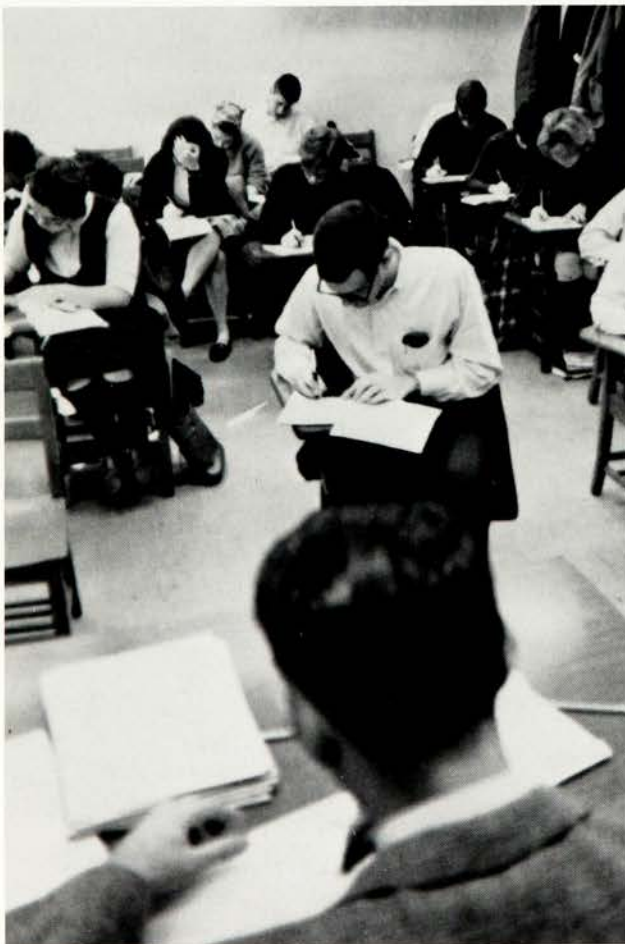

Carole, I didn't think you cared.

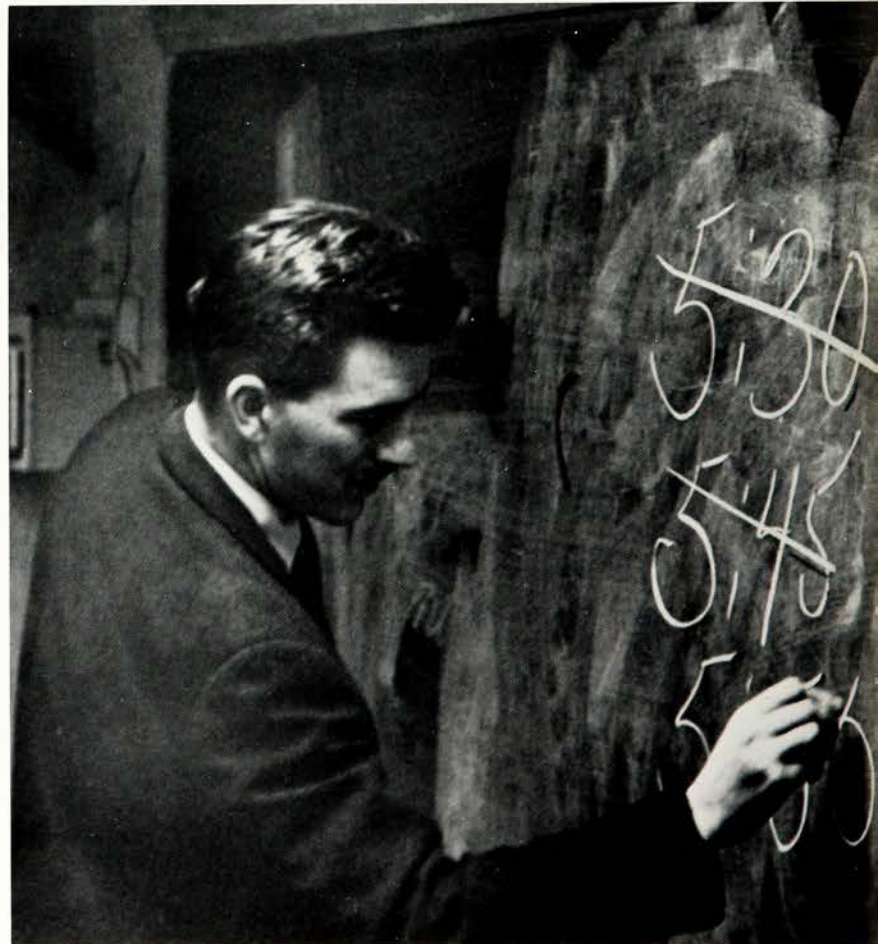

Blight of the Blue Book

Rise up, students of the world, you have nothing to lose but your grades.

Cat... see... run... up... red... look...

I love to write on the board!

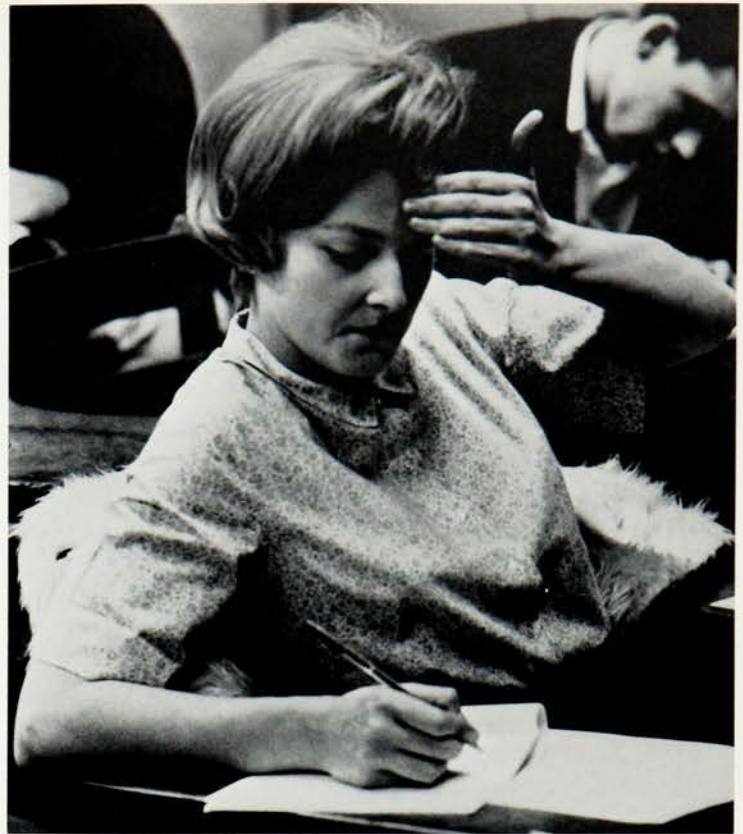

Strikes Again

The Blue Book is relatively innocuous in appearance. But to all seekers of knowledge it is the symbol of that traditional semi-annual torture known as examinations.

These metaphorical racks and wheels are preceded by the merciful few days known as the reading period, during which the student frantically gathers up notes for cut classes and discovers that the Reprint Book Store is sold out of every outline book he needs. Self-organized and misplanned seminars are held all through the nights. These study sessions produce a unique form of humor known as punch-drunkenness, and for some reason unknown to God, man or the history department, King James I suddenly incites greater hilarity than Red Skelton ever will. Another phenomenon of study under pressure and thirty cups of coffee is that the mystery of T. S. Eliot, the continental glacier or some such equally elusive subject is completely unveiled before the student's previously befuddled eyes.

By 8:20 a.m. the student has finally organized the course and realizes what he has to learn; he then has ten minutes in which to learn it. Whether or not he does learn it is the unknown quantity, but he somehow stumbles, groggy-eyed and grubby, into the proper classroom and pours out two hours' worth of his soul, mind and body into that little Blue Book.

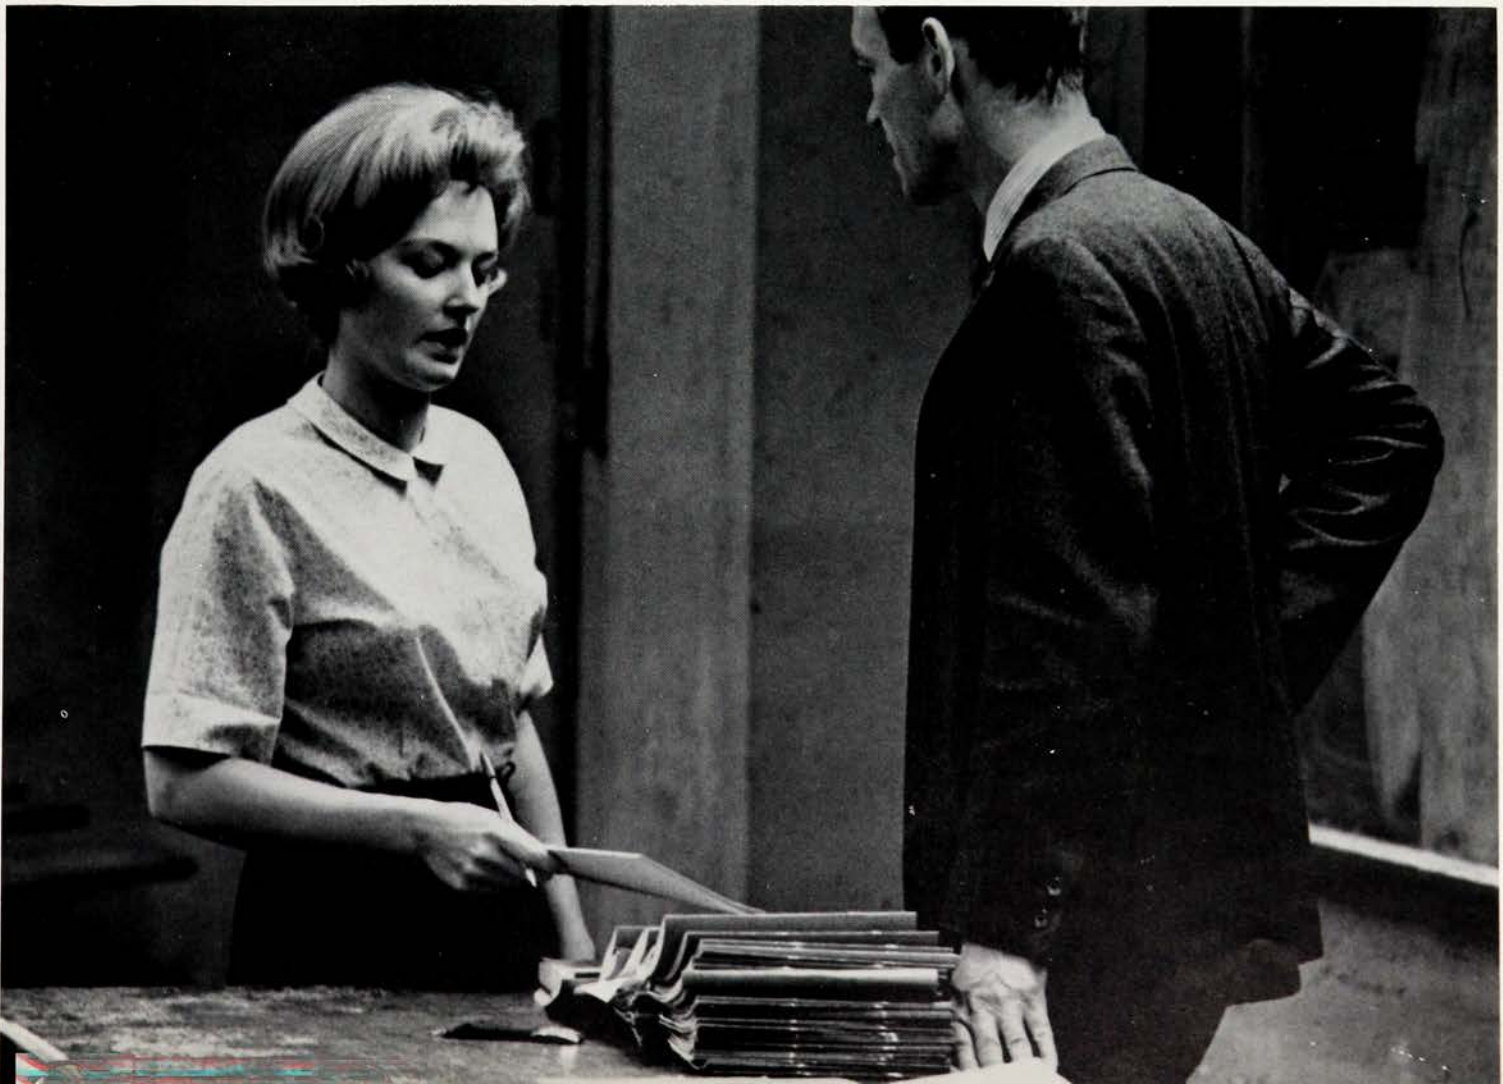

The Book then passes into the hands of a professor who is no more overjoyed at the prospect of blinding himself on surrealistic penmanship, of shivering at undergraduates' un-grammar, un-diction, and un-spelling, of paging through the identical information with just enough variety in error to demand his attention, than was the student at composing this labor of hate.

I wonder if it's too late to drop this course.

But the student is finished: not only the Blue Book changes hands, but also his Fate. The student can go home and sleep through semester break.

This will make you WEEP, Mr. Gallagher.

"Welcome to Derby Day"

"Come one, come all! The spectacular events of Derby Day are about to begin! See the Greek wonders in their exotic dungarees! Support them in their athletic endeavors! They run! They jump! They slide! They throw pies like experts!"

And so they come; they come each spring to that traditional competition sponsored by the Sigma Chi Fraternity, which tests our sorority women on such diverse and sundry necessary skills as beer can opening, egg-throwing, and whipped cream gobbling. The one, the only, Derby Day!

Derby Day! Ah, the term conjures up such blissful remembrances. What participant can forget those hours in the scorching sun, the kindly, encouraging cheers from the fraternity audience, the skinned knees, the broken fingernails . . . ?

Everyone remembers the enthusiasm, the winning, the losing, the laughing, the screaming. But most of all . . . the fun.

May Day Minstrel

This year the traditional All-U Follies and May Day were combined into the May Day Minstrel.

All-U Follies is a talent show open to all members of the student body. Trophies are given in two categories: individual competition and group competition. Entertainment is also given by groups not competing for trophies—the Dance Production Group, the Glee Club, and the Universities Players.

May Day recognizes those students and organizations which have achieved some merit in the field of University activities. The May Queen Court, chosen from the women elected to Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities, is introduced. Various awards, such as Colonial Booster and Intramural Forensic trophies, are presented. Omicron Delta Kappa, Mortar Board, Order of Scarlet, and Pi Delta Epsilon tap new members. Recognition at May Day is an honor well-cherished by any student with an interest in the University.

In Memoriam: Colonial Cruise

"Cruising down the river on a Saturday afternoon

What could be more pleasant on a warm spring day than a relaxing cruise down the crystalline Potomac—college students enjoying the wholesome fellowship of their friends, while strains of the Alma Mater are audible in every nook and cranny of the luxurious yacht.

What could be more exciting than an afternoon at the playland of the gods, Marshall Field—softball, carousels, picnics beneath the elms, dancing, and, uh, more wholesome fellowship, the All-American pastimes.

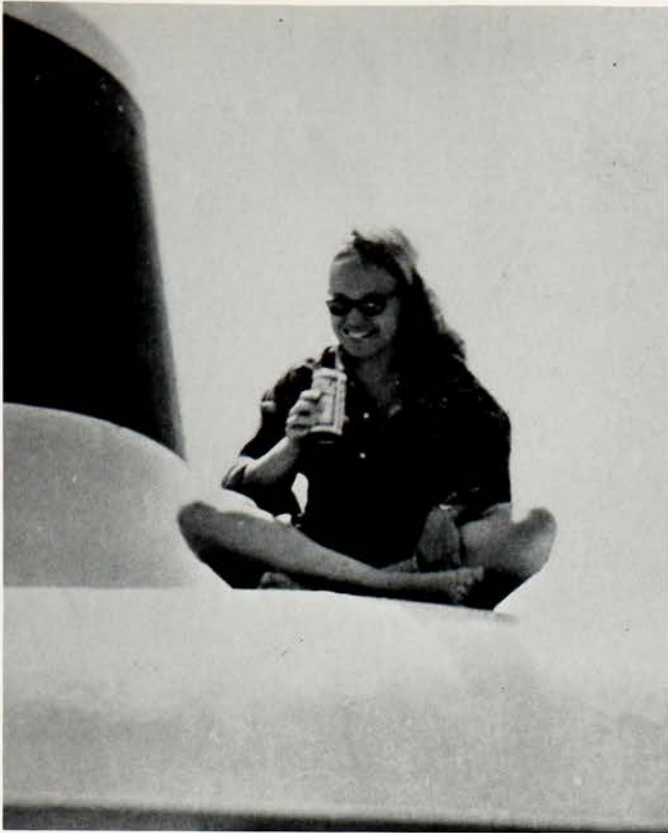

Perhaps the Colonial Cruise of the George Washington University doesn't quite live up to that idyllic description, but aren't we glad? We enjoy having our beer impounded.

I'll row first!

ASME

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers was formed for the purpose of professional advancement of mechanical engineering students. To achieve this end, the society holds regular monthly meetings at which time speakers are heard. Other activities include a student paper competition, and an active participation in the Annual Engineers Week.

Tau Beta Pi

Tau Beta Pi, a national engineering honorary, was founded at Lehigh University in 1885 to mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor on their alma mater by distinguished scholarship and exemplary character as undergraduates in engineering, or by their attainments as alumni in the field of engineering, and to foster a spirit of liberal culture in the engineering colleges of America. The honorary takes its membership from the upper one-eighth of the junior class and upper one-fifth of the senior class. During the year the group sponsors various service projects.

Enosinian Debating Society

On March 6, 1822, two months after the first class sessions had begun at GW, fifteen students held a meeting "for the purpose of establishing a debating society." The Enosinian Debating Society has continued and the Society's name has been popularly shortened to the Debate Team. On the rolls of the Society are many familiar names: Daniel Webster, J. C. Calhoun, J. Q. Adams, Henry Clay, William Cullen Bryant, and Robert E. Lee. Since its first competition in intercollegiate debate, the team has grown under coach George Henigan into one of the country's most respected debating societies. In fourteen attempts, the Society has participated in the West Point National Debate Tournament ten times, making this one of the few schools so consistently achieving this distinction. There is also participation in non-competitive activities including a high school debate tournament, a demonstration debate and a television appearance. Throughout the years the Enosinian Society has maintained its basic purpose—to foster excellence in the forensic arts and to help the individual student.

Phi Delta Phi is the oldest professional fraternity, formally organized on December 13, 1869, at the University of Michigan. With seventy-four active chapters in the U. S. and Canada, it is the largest fraternity of its kind. It is represented on the Law Review, in the Van Vleck Case Club, as part of the Student Bar Association, Mock Court Team, and on the Student Government. Brother Johnson was selected as the 1963 Graduate of the Year at Law Day ceremonies, with four of the five awards presented by the University going to Phi Delta Phis.

Phi Delta Phi

Van Vleck Case Club

The Van Vleck Case Club is an extracurricular law organization, whose purpose is to enable law students to gain experience in appellate practice by preparing and arguing moot cases before a simulated appellate court. The Case Club holds annual competition consisting of written briefs and oral arguments in which the competitors are judged on their understanding of pertinent points of the law.

The Jay chapter of Phi Alpha Delta, a national law fraternity, was organized at George Washington in 1920. Unique in its origin, it is the only law fraternity nurtured in a legal controversy. It is restricted to law schools accredited by the American Bar Association and has more active chapters than any other law fraternity. Its aim is to foster a higher standard of professional ethics in the law schools and the practicing profession at large.

Delta Theta Phi

With the purpose of encouraging a high standard of scholarship and character, the Woodrow Wilson Chapter of Delta Theta Phi was organized on this campus in 1916. Through a program of both educational and social functions, the fraternity aims to strengthen ties among the brothers and with the profession at large. Scholarship awards are presented annually.

Pi Delta Epsilon

Pi Delta Epsilon, National college recognition society in journalism for men and women, was organized at GW in 1922. The purpose of Pi Delta Epsilon is to elevate the cause of journalism, to foster the mutual welfare of student publications, to develop true fraternal spirit among its members, to encourage loyalty to the alma mater, and to reward the journalist for his efforts, service, and accomplishments by admission to its membership. Members are chosen from students who have served for at least one year or more on accredited campus publications either in editorial or business departments.

Sigma Alpha Eta

Sigma Alpha Eta is the honorary for students majoring in Speech Correction at the University and gives the students the opportunity to use their classroom theory and broaden their knowledge of the field. The members often have the opportunity to hear prominent speakers in the fields of Speech and Speech Correction at their meetings.

Aesculapian Society

The Aesculapian Society is the pre-medical honorary on campus. Members pursue the purpose of the society, familiarizing pre-med students with the career they have chosen, through field trips and lectures by noted speakers.

Omicron Delta Kappa

Omicron Delta Kappa is a national service and scholarship honorary. Often considered the service counterpart of Phi Beta Kappa, ODK recognizes junior and senior, and also graduate men of high scholarship and outstanding leadership on campus in various fields, including social and religious activities, sports, publications, music, debate and drama. Tapping takes place at the Homecoming Dance, and at May Day in the Spring.

Order of Scarlet is an honorary organization for sophomore and junior men who have at least a 2.5 QPI and who have participated extensively in extracurricular activities. Tapping of new members takes place twice yearly, at the Homecoming Dance, and at the May Day program. Upon selection, each new member is required to carry out a project selected by the Board of Governors.

Members of Tassels, the Sophomore Women's honorary sponsored by Mortar Board, are tapped at the Big Sis Tips 'n Tea during Fall Orientation. In addition to maintaining high scholarship, pledges are required to contribute fifteen hours of combined meetings and project work before initiation. Among others, projects include sale of homecoming tickets, working in the book exchange, and assisting in the annual Alumni Support program.

The Junior Panhellenic Council is sponsored by Senior Panhel, and is composed of a representative from the pledge class of each sorority. Junior Panhel promotes a cooperative spirit among the pledge classes and presents the annual Goat Show, which consists of a five minute skit by each pledge class. This year's Goat Show theme is "Happiness is . . ."

Crawford Hall Council

Crawford Hall Council, in addition to the usual judicial activities, holds social activities, including open houses and parties. Crawford also sponsors a Christmas party for children from Junior Village, and Sunday morning coffee hours.

The Dormitory Councils of the five women's dormitories (three on campus and two off) serve both judicial and social functions. Judicial functions include the government and administration of the dormitory, a responsibility shared with the resident director. Social functions include faculty teas, open houses, and a Christmas party.

Madison Hall Council

The dorm is an integral part of campus life, and Madison is no exception. Its girls share experiences with the other halls—2 a.m. fire drills, broken elevators, forgetting to sign out, and 'burning the midnight oil. In addition, the girls enjoy open houses, faculty teas, birthday parties, and the traditional Christmas Party, complete with Santa. During exams, the dorm council serves coffee and doughnuts to the studious coeds.

People-to-people is a national organization whose object is to promote communication and understanding between the people of the U. S. and those of foreign lands. The chapter at GW has two goals. The first is giving the foreign student a real experience of American life and helping them form friendships with American students. The second goal is enabling the American students to benefit genuinely from the closer relations with the foreign students.

Although Adams is located at the edge of the campus, its men can be found in the center of all phases of campus life. The Hall is governed by its Dorm Council and is active in campus life, with exchanges and participation in intramural sports.

Alpha Kappa Psi

Alpha Kappa Psi is the oldest national professional business fraternity. Members, majoring in business administration, commerce, accounting and economics, keep up to date with the business world through guest speakers and lectures. Prominent business men and faculty members are often initiated as honorary members. Senator Barry Goldwater was initiated last spring, and the GW chapter was host to the regional conference this fall.

B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation

B'nai B'rith Hillel, the Jewish students' organization on our campus, is recognized for its many religious, charitable, educational and social services. Included among its functions are scheduled worship services, seminars, speeches, Hebrew and Yiddish lessons, kosher dining, and religious holiday observances. Friday afternoon snack bar and Sunday morning bagel and lox brunches are two of Hillel's most popular activities.

Newman Club

Educational, social and religious are the divisions of the Newman Club activities. This year, first Friday Masses, excellent speakers, hay rides, picnics, spaghetti dinners, theology classes and visits to Junior Village were part of the program. At Homecoming time, the Newman Club float took second place in the independent class. The Newman Club aims to participate in all campus events possible for this type of group.

At Dinner

First row only: J. Bachelder, Public Relations; D. Armijo, Secretary; B. O'Brien, President; Father Thomas Duffy, Chaplain, E. Ryan, Vice-President; H. Lorenzetti, Treasurer; C. Gagliardi, Parliamentarian.

Lutheran Students Association

Baptist Student Union

Religious Council

The religious council, an interfaith organization which coordinates student participation in religious activities, is composed of representatives from each campus religious organization. The council sponsors a reception for new students, participates in the Holiday Season Program, and sponsors a tutoring program for elementary school children during the fall and spring semesters.

The Christian Science Organization sponsors weekly testimonial meetings and special activities including a reception for students interested in Christian Science during Orientation Week and an annual lecture on the campus. This year's speaker was Geith A. Plimmer of London, England, who spoke on the subject, "Christian Science, A Friend of the Student."

S.N.E.A

As the junior branch of the National Education Association, the Student National Education Association strives to promote among students majoring in education a better understanding of the profession through lectures, speakers, and social functions.

W.A.A.

The Women's Athletic Association offers a wide variety of sports activities for women, including among others: badminton, basketball, canoeing, fencing, golf, tennis, swimming, and volleyball. The program includes informal activity and competition, for which awards are presented. A "Sports Girl of the Year" and a "Junior Sports Girl of the Year" trophies are awarded to outstanding senior or junior, and freshman or sophomore women, respectively.

International Student's Society

C. P. Dodhia
President

The International Students' Society provides an opportunity for students of different ethnic backgrounds to meet on a social basis. American student membership is restricted to one fourth of the society's total membership. The respect and interest of the student body for the group are indicated by the enthusiasm with which the society's social and educational programs have been received.

The National Defense Act of 1916 provided for the establishment of Reserve Officers Training Corps as a source of officers for the newly authorized Officers Reserve Corps. The 140th Air Force ROTC Detachment is continuing in its mission of providing military and academic education for University students in order to select and motivate students for service in the United States Air Force.

Under the direction of the Professor of Air Science, Lt. Colonel Armand E. Reiser, the training program is conducted both in the Air Science classroom and on the Leadership Laboratory drill field. The Cadet Staff, headed by Group Commander Kenneth Neubeck, is responsible for conducting the Leadership Laboratory training.

Two national military honoraries are represented in the Detachment. The Arnold Air Society, headed by Ron Pump, recognizes cadets for scholastic excellence and leadership qualities. The Pershing Rifles, which honors qualified basic Cadets, specializes in precision drill and participates in competition with other ROTC units.

Corps activities ranged from intramural football to the annual Military Ball. AFROTC also marched in the Homecoming parade and the Corps float took a first place.

Football

The George Washington University football team under head coach Jim Camp found themselves depth poor again in 1963 and finished with just two wins in nine games. A fine starting eleven led by senior All-American candidate Dick Drummond at halfback and nationally acclaimed quarterback Merv Holland were not enough to offset the noticeable lack of depth on the Colonial bench. Nonetheless, exciting football predominated throughout the season. Talented Holland, top passer in the Southern Conference and one of the best in the nation, set new Southern Conference records for passes attempted, passes completed and total passing offense. Dick Drummond, two-time all-Southern Conference halfback, smashed Tuffy Leeman's career scoring record established here in the 1930's and went on to lead the Southern Conference in total points with 46. It was an exciting year of football at GW despite a very disappointing won-lost record.

The Season

Duke Farrell

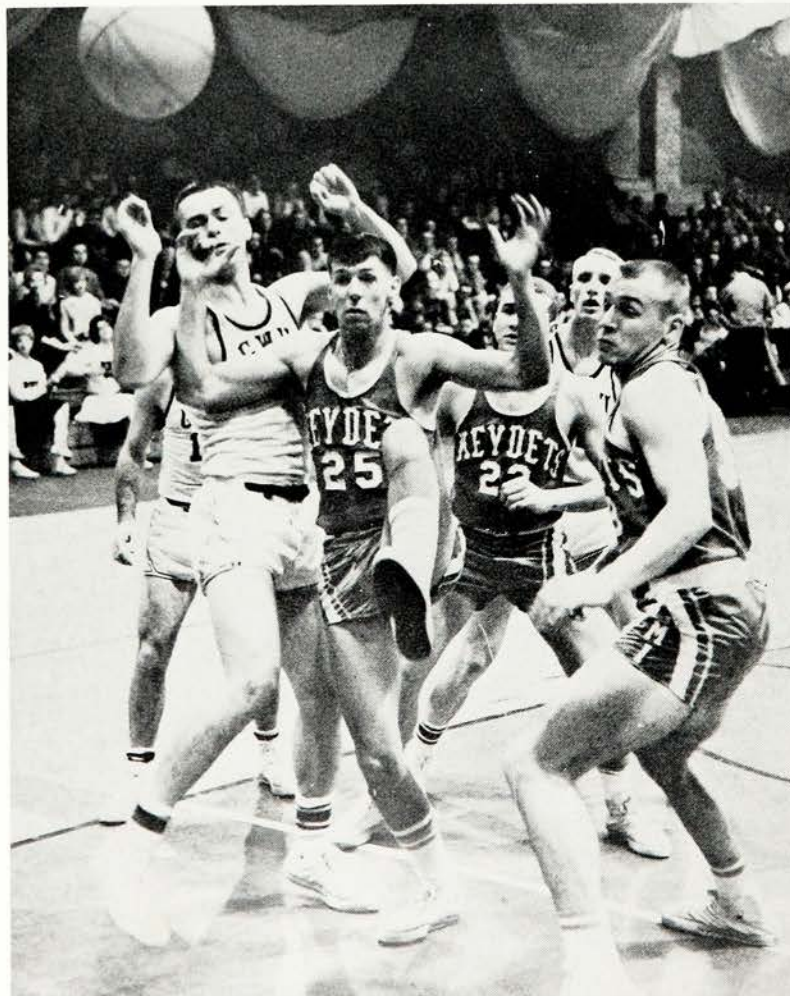

The GW Colonials under veteran coach Bill Reinhart started the season slowly in 1963-64 dropping five out of their first six games. Colonial victories over the Citadel and Richmond broke the ice and GW went on to finish with eleven wins and fifteen losses.

In local "Big Three" competition area fans watched GW scuttle high flying Georgetown 77 to 69 in their first meeting. Then after losing to Maryland, GW lost a heartbreaker to the Hoyas in the rematch, 83-81.

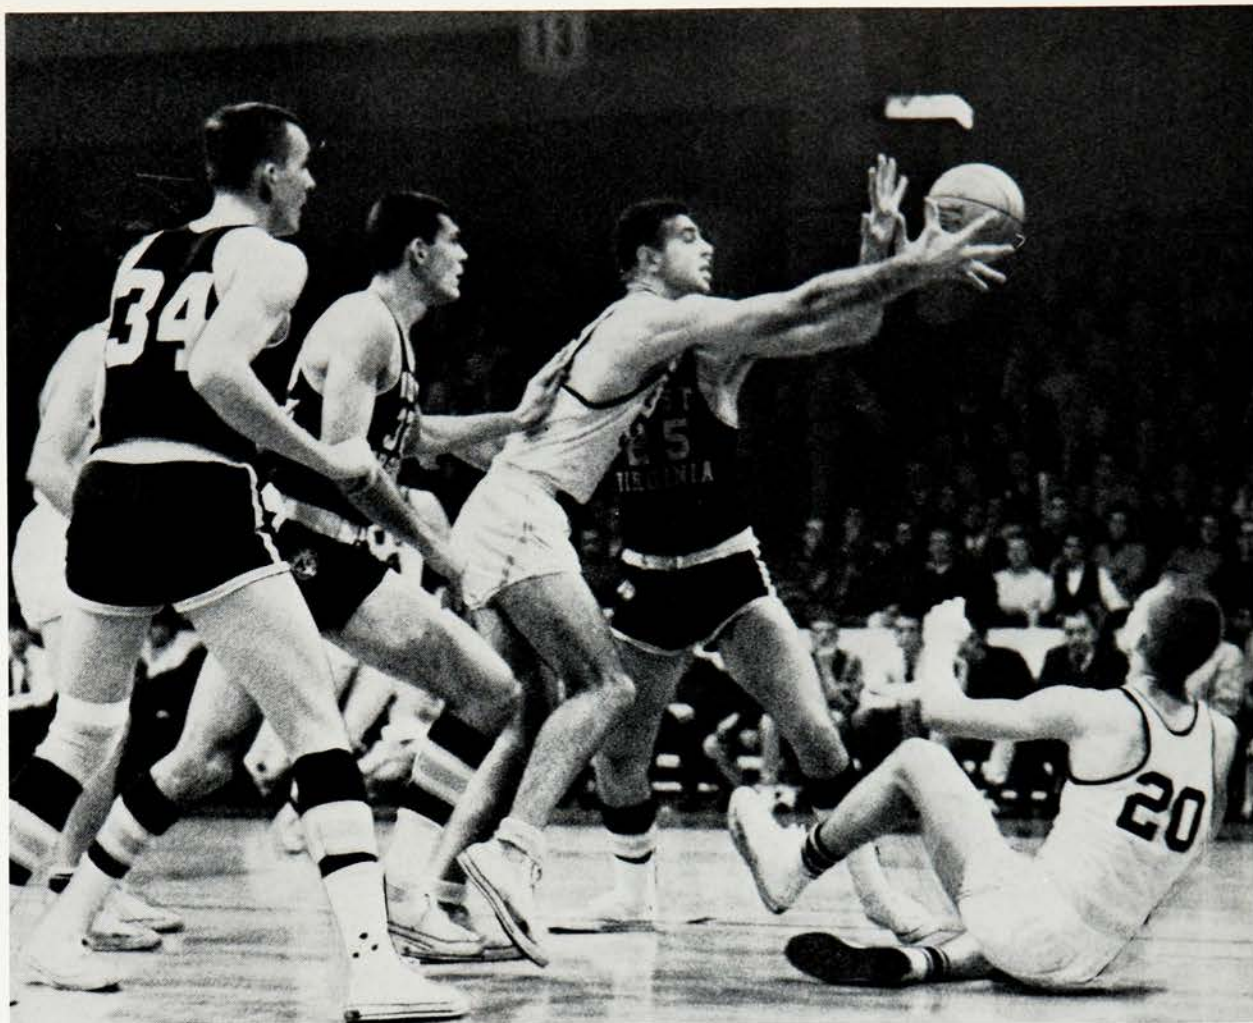

In the last regular season game GW stunned Navy, 87-76. Big Joe Adamitis, senior Colonial center and backbone of the Colonial attack most of the season, played a superb game, hitting for 32 points and pulling in 27 rebounds.

At the post season Southern Conference Tournament it was again Adamitis, along with junior teammate Mark Clark, who led the GW attack. Sixth seeded in the tournament, GW downed Virginia Tech in the opener, 64-62. Then everything broke wide open. Conference leader and nationally ranked Davidson lost to VMI. Mark Clark led the Colonials to a startling victory over a strong West Virginia five, and GW discovered themselves matched against VMI for the Southern Conference Tournament Championship. It was the first Colonial victory over the Mountaineers in their last ten meetings and GW made it look easy. Clark hit for 31 points, a career high, and Adamitis had 21 points and 17 rebounds. The total effort fell short however, and GW lost the big one, 61-56, against VMI the following night.

Backing up big guns Adamitis and Clark on the first team throughout the season were play-maker and defensive ace Ric Duques, Phil Aruscavage and Kenny Legins.

Look fellows—a new variation to "the Bird."

Plagued all year by injuries to the pitching staff, GW's baseball team finished with a four and eight record in the Southern Conference in '63. The talented arm of senior Tony Romasco and the heavy bats of Neil Hausig and Bob Smith were bright spots in an otherwise mediocre season for the Colonials.

Infielder John Nalls watches as Tony Romasco tags out a Syracuse base runner.

"Conference Championship Goes to GW"

The GW tennis team, under coach Bill Shreve and led by number one man Harvey Harrison, won the Southern Conference Championship again last spring to boost our record to eight wins in the last nine years. In the regular season the sensational Colonials compiled thirteen wins and just two losses, one to the Citadel, one to Michigan State—a fine season by any standard.

With Bob Chaney and Bob Murphy back swinging their sticks for GW, things looked good again for Coach Feris and his team as they commenced the '63 season. The luckless Colonials, however, were held to one victory in ten starts. Finally, demonstrating the potential they had all year, GW's linksters captured a third place at the Southern Conference Golf Tournament at Myrtle Beach, South Carolina.

Coach Mrs. May McEwan gives rifle club member Dawn Goodman some worthwhile pointers.

The GW Rifle Team, brilliant in 1962-63 competition lost their outstanding coach, Glen Young to the Coast Guard before the 63-64 season. Consequently the varsity and the ROTC rifle teams joined forces in anticipation of the new year. The Southern Conference Tournament and the National Invitational were highlights of the 63-64 season.
